

BLACK BIRDERS WEEK:

"Soaring to Greater Heights!"

at Shirley Chisholm State Park

In collaboration with Black AF In STEM, join the NY State Parks team in celebrating and uplifting budding Black birders, expert Black birders, and anyone in between!

Black Birders Week is a week-long series of events hosted at our two parks named after historically prominent Black women who lived in New York City, Marsha P. Johnson State Park and Shirley Chisholm State Park, and will support, uplift, and bring together Black nature enthusiasts.

Our parks provide wonderful opportunities for connecting with nature and community. All programs are free, but registration is encouraged unless otherwise noted. Visit SCSPEvents.eventbrite.com to RSVP.

Come to one of the Guided Bird Hikes for a chance to win a pair of binoculars or a New York State Parks Empire Pass!
